Process report week 4

I really like the content I am working on this week. What I need to do makes me google more and understand more about kotlin as well as the life cycle and state of an android program.

The debugging part were quite challenging, but I enjoy exploring about it.